

North Haven Community Health Incentive Program

Today, many Americans are looking for the most effective ways to support and maintain their health through improving their nutrition. The Town of North Haven has partnered with IDLife to assist you in identifying and meeting your nutritional needs by introducing the North Haven Community Health Incentive Program.

Now you and your family can complete a free, confidential, HIPAA compliant Health and Nutritional Assessment in the privacy of your own home that will provide you a valuable report outlining lifestyle and nutritional recommendations to help you and your families achieve your best possible state of health. You may visit the North Haven Community Health Incentive Program Website at <http://www.healthdirectbc.com/me/NorthHavenCHIP> to review all the benefits that this Program provides. The nutritional products available to you are made from natural and organic ingredients and are soy free, gluten free, casein free, lactose free, hormone free and are non-GMO. The American Heart Association and American Diabetes Association, as well as Jen Widerstrom, star of "The biggest Loser" have also partnered with IDLife.

And with any products you purchase, you will also be supporting essential services and programs provided to you and your family members by the Town of North Haven. Please visit the North Haven Community Health Incentive Program to obtain your free Individually Designed IDAssessment and view the many resources and products available to you through your North Haven Community Health Incentive Program.
